Grads of '97 honored by staff, family and friends

CAP AND GOWNING IT - Eleven of the 16 graduates from the 1996/97 school year proudly display their graduation attire. Friends, family and teachers gathered to pay tribute Saturday.

Rhonda Noyce
Staff Writer

What lies before us and what lies behind us are tiny matters compared to what lies within us...

That was the phrase that the F. G. Miller Class of '97 chose for their graduation ceremonies at the Elks Hall on Saturday.

Eleven of the 16 graduands in attendance proudly wore their caps and gowns as they walked down the centre of the hall where their family and friends watched in pride. In the backgrCound, the music of a song, "Forever Young," drifted through the hall.

At the front of the hall, the teaching alumni greeted their former students with a lit candle and proceeded to pass on the flame to each student.

The M.C. for the afternoon, Denise Smereka, guided everyone through the ceremonies with ease. Staff member Leonard Franco delivered the invocation.

The class valedictorian, Reagan Croteau, took her fellow graduands down memory lane recalling the journey they have taken over the past 12 years. She gave tribute to the help they received from teachers, parents and friends. Then she echoed some of the feelings some of her former classmates were probably feeling as well as they sat and listened on the stage.

"Along with the joys we celebrate today comes a slight sadness and fear as to what lies ahead. The fear is of leaving and of becoming independent of those who we have always depended on. The future is uncertain and whether there is joy of sorrow, pain or pleasure, achievement or failure, we must be strong enough to work through it and succeed...

"To our parents, our teachers, and our friends, we offer our appreciation because without you, we would not have been able to achieve these goals which we celebrate today. You gave us the love, the knowledge, and the strength we now need as we embark on to a greater journey. We are excited, yet anxious, but you have given us what we need to carry ourselves into the future."

Trustee Ray Danyluk, and father of one of the grads, then gave a message to the students as they head into the future. He told the graduands that they have benefitted from receiving their education in a small town, rural atmosphere, with a mix of agriculture and the oil industry.

"I am confident that the class of '97 will forge their way into the future, as I have seen you in action and know you are a feisty, resourceful, dynamic, revolutionary group of individuals. You will lead the crusade into the 21st century," said Danyluk.

Each of the graduates were then introduced to the crowd by Principal Jim Hawkins and Maureen Ference as Mayor Ed Buck and Trustee Danyluk gave each of the students their pins and scrolls.

Guest speaker Lakeland MP Leon Benoit shared with the graduands the pride and joy their parents must be feeling, as he just attended his own two sons'

Construction rolling along at Newalta plant

Rhonda Noyce
Staff Writer

Newalta Corporation has recently received its waste management licence from the Energy Utilities Board and they are already 60 per cent through their civil work at the site east of Elk Point, says Ken Quaife, regional sales manager.

"We should be finished construction by late '97 and then we will be commissioning the plant for one to two months. We plan to be open for operation by February or March," Quaife commented.

The crews are currently preparing the ground so that they can pour the cement for the buildings. The sand repository pit is already built.

"The equipment should be delivered in the second week of October, so people should see tanks and items showing up on the surface."

Quaife says they will be holding an open house in the third or fourth week of October in order for the industry and local community to see the progress for themselves. When the final details are arranged, the exact date and location for the open house will be released.

Quaife says Newalta is moving into "the next generation" when it comes to treating producers' slops.

"The technology we are building here (in Elk Point) has been developed and worked on for the past three years. We have some of the most advanced technology for washing sand and treating slops."

The Elk Point plant is Newalta's 14th plant in Western Canada for oilfield waste and central treatment. The new plant is projected to process 25,000 cubic metres of sand per year and 15,000 cubic metres of slop per year.

"This is one of the biggest plants we've ever built," says Quaife.

In fact it has grown beyond Newalta's original projections. Quaife says the plant was originally planned to cost $5 million, but has since grown in size and will cost a total of $7.5 million.

Quaife explains that the reason for the larger plant is because of the demand for oilfield waste management, including new technology, in the area.

"The market is so large. Everyone is looking for solutions because of the waste generated up here."

This is also good news for local laborers. Quaife says they will be hiring 14 to 15 new people, and they will look to the local talent first.

As the oil industry continues to boom, Newalta will be right in the middle of it.

"We are continuing to expand in the heavy oil corridor with the acquisition of an existing facility in Marwayne," Quaife adds. Newalta recently purchased their 15th facility from Skimmers Oilfield Services (SOS).

He also mentioned the possibility of another plant, similar to the one outside Elk Point, to be constructed in the Fort Kent area.

graduation ceremony two weeks ago and said he was bursting with pride. He then commended the grads for the choice of their theme because the answer to their future depends on how they deal with change and what attitudes they develop throughout their lifetimes.

Benoit then proceeded to present one of the grads with the Citizenship Award. This year's recipient was Shaun Moroziuk.

The grads then each had their tassels turned to the opposite sides of their caps by Leonard Franco to signify their official graduation status.

Grade 11 student Pam Jabush then sang, "The Light in Your Eyes," and congratulated the graduands for their achievements.

A banquet followed where toasts were delivered to graduands, parents and teachers; and the Crusader sword was passed to students of the graduating class of 1998.

The grads of 1997 are as follows: Sheldon Ballas, Raegan Croteau, Robyn Danyluk, Melissa Easthope, Christa Hammond, Tim Havener, Jeff Hodder, Amber Kopeck, Kathy Kozina, Crystal Kulczycki, Sheri Mackowecki, Shaun Moroziuk, Jodi Saranchuk, Jamie Tetz, Darren Watson, Jillian West.

Encouragement — an important gift to give

By Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

It is now the end of September and our fall has not really cooperated with our farmers. A few nice days here and there, then rain and cold days. My heart goes out to the farmers. "Hang in there!" It has been tough.

When I think of encouragement, I am reminded of a story found in the Fourth Course of Chicken Soup for the Soul. It is an anonymous story from Brian Cavanaugh's The Sower's Seeds.

Dante Gabriel Rossetti, the famous 19th century poet and artist, was once approached by an elderly man. The old fellow had some sketches and drawings that he wanted Rossetti to look at and tell him if they we any good, or if they at least showed potential talent.

Rossetti looked them over carefully. After the first few, he knew that they were worthless, showing not the least sign of artistic talent. But Rossetti was a kind man, and he told the elderly man as gently as possible that the pictures were without much value and showed little talent. He was sorry, but he could not lie to the man.

The visitor was disappointed, but seemed to expect Rossetti's judgement. He then apologized for taking up Rossetti's time, but would he just look at a few more drawings — these done by a young art student?

Rossetti looked over the second batch of sketches and immediately became enthusiastic over the talent they revealed. "These," he said, "oh, these are good. This young student has great talent. He should be given every help and encouragement in his career as an artist. He has a great future if he will work hard and stick to it."

Rossetti could see that the old fellow was deeply moved. "Who is this fine young artist?" he asked. "Your son?"

"No," said the old man sadly. "It is me — 40 years ago. If only I had heard your praise then! For you see, I got discouraged and gave up — too soon."

I think this story of the importance of encouragement could be given to anyone. Our farmers, our students, or anyone. It is full of an important message. Don't become discouraged and give up. At the same time, recognition of the value of one's work and talent is important. Thank you for all you do, and hang in there, everyone.

Lakeland MP questions peacekeeping missions

OTTAWA (September 25, 1997) — Today Leon Benoit, Deputy Defence Critic, commented on the possibility that the Liberal government may once again extend its mandate to keep Canada's troops in Haiti.

"Who's in charge here?" asked Benoit. "Last week the Minister said the troops were coming home. Now we hear they may stay. What we do know for sure is that at a recent Nato conference in Barcelona, Mr. Chrétien stated that he sent Canadian troops to Haiti as a 'favor' to President Clinton."

"Instead of sending troops overseas willy-nilly at the beck and call of the American President, we must have clear guidelines on Canadian participation in international peacekeeping missions. The impact of these missions on the men and women in our forces and on the security of our country must be carefully considered," stated Benoit.

"The Liberal Government must end its haphazard handling of peacekeeping missions. Participation in these missions should be undertaken only after a thorough and proper assessment and approval by Parliament. That is not happening," concluded Benoit.

Report From The Legislature

By Paul Langevin
MLA - Lac La Biche - St. Paul

Starting in March 1998, obtaining a hunting or fishing licence will become easier, faster, and more convenient. The department of Environmental Protection has entered into an agreement with Information Systems Management Corporation (ISM), a division of IBM Global Services, for ISM to manage the sale of recreational fishing and hunting licences in Alberta. This new system, the only one of its kind among North American jurisdictions, will improve the delivery of licences to hunters and anglers in our province. Beginning next March, all recreational fishing and hunting licences will be sold through private licence issuers using automated terminals similar to those used for debit/credit card transactions. Currently, 90% of recreational sport-fishing licences, and 50% of hunting licences, are privately issued.

Through these automated terminals, issuers will be able to confirm licence eligibility on-line, and print licences at the point of sale. This new system will be faster and more convenient for the consumer, with the ability to access all relevant information on each licence holder, such as the licences he or she already holds, and the validity of the current purchase.

In order to more easily store and access this information, the new system will require Wildlife Identification Number (WIN) cards. These must be purchased by all hunters and anglers before buying a licence. The WIN cards, which are valid for five years, will cost $8.00; they are renewable for an additional five years for $4.00. These cards will contain the information needed for the new system, and will ensure that licensing errors are virtually eliminated. This new system is consistent with our government's commitment to the principle of removing itself from the delivery of services that can be better performed by the private sector. Through this agreement with ISM, Environmental Protection will be able to divert its resources to other priorities, such as fish and wildlife management, and the enforcement of regulations.

Nutrition notes

Ulcer diets: they're not what they used to be!

By Shelley Miller-Hertes
Registered Dietician, Elk Point Health Centre

The following guidelines may help you control the pain associated with eating and help prevent the recurrence of ulcers.

1. Eat a varied, well-balanced diet to obtain an adequate intake of all nutrients.

2. East only 3 meals a day. Avoid snacking at bedtime. Snacking has been shown to increase stomach acidity.

3. Eat your meals slowly, in a relaxed atmosphere, and chew your food thoroughly.

4. Eat plenty of whole grains, legumes, fresh fruits and vegetables. Fibre helps to prevent the recurrence of ulcers.

5. Drink milk with meals rather than on an empty stomach. Large amounts of milk may provide temporary relief, but also stimulate the release of acid in the stomach.

6. Avoid foods that may cause stomach or intestinal discomfort. Tolerance to food items is individual.

7. Avoid coffee, tea, decaffeinated coffee and caffeine-containing beverages such as cola and chocolate drinks. Chocolate candies and desserts may also increase acid production.

8. Most spices are well tolerated by people with ulcers. However, red pepper, jalapenos or chili pepper, paprika and black pepper are known stomach irritants.

9. Avoid alcohol or limit alcohol intake. Alcohol increases stomach acidity and can damage the stomach lining.

10. Avoid or decrease smoking. Smoking increases the risk of developing ulcers and results in slowing healing and greater recurrence of ulcers.

11. Avoid medication containing salicylate (eg. Aspirin) or caffeine. Read the labels of all over-the-counter medicines.

These guidelines explain how to avoid foods that cause discomfort, increase acid production, or irritate the stomach. Remember individual tolerances play an important role, just because someone else avoided tomatoes due to ulcer pain, doesn't mean you have to!

The Crusader Column

By Trevor Cardinal & Tim Hardy

This past week has been a very busy one for the staff and students of F.G. Miller.

On Thursday, September 18, Meet the Teacher night was held. Contrary to other years, the format was a forum of teachers, administrators and parents. The topics on the agenda were diploma exams, discipline, renovation and responsibility. From this meeting, issues that will be addressed are: CTS communication (watch school newsletter), a review of the discipline policy, course outlines for each of the students' courses to be shared with the parents, goal setting, student achievement, attendance and overall communication with the home. The parent council plans to address these concerns and invites all parents to attend their meetings which are held every second Wednesday of each month.

At the end of last year, the teachers of F.G. Miller created "teams" which were developed to address specific concerns / events that affect F.G. Miller. It was felt that by creating these teams, issues would be dealt with by a number of people, taking some of the pressure off individuals, as well as "centralizing" decisions so that a continual check of the "left hand knowing what the right hand" is doing is in place. Those teams include: academic / motivation, athletics, grad, discipline / attendance, fine arts, fundraising, publicity and school spirit. It was also decided that these teams would be more effective if student and parent involvement was included. Many of the teams are looking for these representatives to join their groups. Please contact the school if you or your child are interested in joining any of these teams.

Once again, F.G. Miller is challenging other schools in the "athletic arena.". The Sr. Volleyball teams traveled to Glendon to finish their pre-season training. Their SPAA season begins on October 1st when they will travel to Mallaig. The Jr. teams start their season at home on October 2 when Racette will visit. Come out and support our Crusaders!! On the 19th of September, the Boys' Golf team traveled to Bonnyville to compete in the N.E. Zones playoffs. Over 90 golfers from the area were competing. Congrat-ulations to Aaron Grosseth who shot 84, leading the Elk Point team to a 4th place finish in the A1/2A competition. Other members of the team were Justin Malachowski, Dustin Yaremkevich, Travis Brown and James Babenek. September 24 was the SPAA Jr./Sr. Cross Country Run held outside of Vilna; F.G. Miller was represented by 56 competitors. We would like to send out a BIG congratulations to Chad West who ran 4000 meters in an amazing 17:39 to earn himself a gold medal in the Sr. Boys Jr. Division, as well congratulations to Tanya Pankiw who earned a 4th place finish in the Jr. Girls A Division. Every member of that team is to be commended on their efforts in representing F.G. Miller so well.

Crusaders of the Week for last week were: Chris Nielson and Tasha Yopyk. Way to go! Students are starting to count the days until the first monthly draw for the Above the Limit Program. Over 30 groups, businesses and individuals have donated to the program so far. If you or your group are interested in supporting the Above the Limit Program, please contact Denise Smereka at the school (724-3966). All donations are greatly appreciated.

In Language Arts 7, Mrs. Ference asked the students to write an essay about "My First Week of Survival." The following is Danielle Schnurer's account of her first week.

The Best Part About Being in Grade 7

Seeing your friends everyday,

Saying hello to teachers in a special way.

Meeting new people in a different place,

Joining in on the Cross-Country Race.

Playing with the earth ball has been so much fun,

Playing a great soccer game in the joyous sun.

Listening to the workers hammer all day long,

Hearing the band playing a tuneful song.

We're always allowed to go downtown.

Going to L.A. class never makes me frown.

Learning things that I have never known before,

Ending the day as I walk out the door.

With that, look for next week's update from F.G. Miller.

Science 7A at F.G. Miller has gone digital

By Lawrence Pidluzny

Students in the Science 7A program at F.G. Miller Jr./Sr. High School have entered an experimental, first-time-ever opportunity to learn Science almost entirely on a computer terminal. Since lab and classroom space was at a premium due to the modernization construction, it was necessary to hold the science class in the computer lab, and what better opportunity was there to get science into cyberspace.

Daily lessons including objectives, activities and evaluations are presented to the student via Microsoft Word 6.0. Students have the option of touch-typing responses right on their terminals, writing in their notebooks, or accessing continually-updated notes on a daily basis. Many colorful graphics are used throughout to ignite and inspire the imagination. Microsoft Encarta 95 supplies an on-line electronic encyclopedia at the touch of a button. MicroSoft Works 3.0 Spreadsheet and Graphing will be used throughout most scientific investigations to collect, graph and interpret data which will lead students to formulate accurate conclusions. Microsoft Works drawing tools, as well as Key CADD Complete will be used during the Structures and Design unit for drawing, drafting and design activities. Many simulation programs will aid in understanding concept in Microbiology, the Earth's Crust, and Heat and Temperature units.

In the near future, Netscape Navigator 2.01 and Internet Explorer 3.0 browsers will take the place of Microsoft Word in presenting lessons in HTML document format (as seen on the internet). Near the end of September, live Internet connections will be available to all workstations in the lab which will truly take Science 7A into the 21st Century. Parents, please watch for the Acceptable Use Agreements which will be going home with your students. This agreement will need to be read and signed prior to your son or daughter having access to the Internet. As this program is still in an experimental stage, I welcome any constructive suggestions and positive comments as the class continues. Students of this course are Kenny Abbott, Jordan Allen, Moriah Brunner, George Danyluk, Kelly Derewynka, Erin Donaldson, Michelle Friesen, Sarah Goulet, Eva Gusnowski, Twyla Jackson, Kyle Kurek, David Morris, Kyle Nielsen, Garrett Poulin, Andrew Priddle, Chris Prymak, Danielle Schnurer, Steven Tupper, Jaylynn Wirsta, Clayton Wruth, Dayna Yaremkevich, Tasha Yopyk, and Amanda Zapesocki. Parents and students are welcome to drop in to the computer lab or call me at 724-4339 or email: pidluzny@incentre.net. Thank you.

The St. Paul meeting will take place on November 5 at 7 p.m. An open house, 5:30 to 7:00 p.m. will be held at the St. Paul Seniors Centre with the public meeting to follow.

The views and suggestions presented to the Committee will form the basis of an interim report that will e submitted to the Ministers of Agriculture, Food and Rural Development and Environmental Protection who jointly manage the administer public lands in Alberta. This interim report will e made available for public review and comment later in 1998. After the public review is completed, a final report with recommendations for policy direction will then be submitted to the two Ministers.

Open houses with staff from Agriculture, Food and Rural Development and Environmental Protection will be held immediately prior to each public meeting to provide information and provide clarification on public land policies and practices in the White Area.

Those wishing to make a presentation to the Committee are asked to book a time at the location of their choice by phoning (403) 427-3595. What's news at the library?

New adult fiction and non-fiction for fall reading

By Michele Duczek
Librarian

I never thought I would be digging out my mittens in September but the recent winds we've been experiencing have been frigid. Just the perfect weather for curling up with a good book and from the looks of my circulation statistics, a lot of people in Elk Point agree with me. Here are a few new adult fiction titles that make great fall reading:

What Carol Shields did for women in The Stone Diaries, she now does for men in Larry's Party. It is the story of ordinary guy Larry Weller, born in Winnipeg in 1950, covering the years between 1977 and 1997, from his youth to his midlife crisis.

A woman bent on revenge targets an ambitious governor with designs on the White House in Sidney Sheldon's latest best-seller, The Best Laid Plans.

The Branded Man by Catherine Cookson is the story of two young women, and a mysterious man whose disfigurement causes him to be called "the branded man," and how their lives are somehow connected.

The Magician's Wife by Brian Moore traces the story of Emmeline Lambert, wife of an illusionist sent by Napoleon III to Algeria to convince the Arabs that France's might and magic are greater than their own. Things heat up when she sheds her inhibitions in the hot glare of the Algerian sun.

And in adult nonfiction:

Anyone who has to deal with a lawyer (and we all do eventually) might want to check out Dancing with Lawyers: How to Get Better Results for Less Money by Nicholas Carrol. This book takes you through the process of selecting, retaining and getting the best legal advice for your money.

The Secret Language of Eating Disorders by Peggy Claude-Pierre debunks the myths many people have about eating disorders and reveals Claude-Pierre's groundbreaking theories on the ultimate cure for these illnesses that current medicine treats with little success.

Deepak Chopra gives parents advice on how to raise children with values that satisfy spiritual needs as well as create the experience of abundance in The Seven Spiritual Laws for Parents.

Canada at War is a collection of articles about Canada's wartime experiences that previously appeared in Maclean's magazine. From World War I to the war in the former Yugoslavia, read about what we as Canadians experienced.
